HISTORIC RESOURCE INVENTORY – BUILDINGS AND STRUCTURES

CONTINUATION SHEET

North Guilford Cemetery/Ledge Hill Rd

Interrelationship of building and surroundings

The landscape has a row of deciduous trees along the east side of the cemetery. Deciduous trees are also along the south of the cemetery, and a couple coniferous trees are on the site. A stone wall runs along the whole perimeter of the cemetery. The entrances to the cemetery are along the east perimeter in the stone wall. The cemetery is on a slight hill that declines from east to west.

Other notable features of building or site

Most of the stones are low and modest yet there are still several larger monument type grave markers including obelisks. The motifs found throughout the cemetery include winged death head's or skulls, winged cherubs' heads, willow trees, and urns. Some families that are included in the cemetery are Dudley, Chittenden, Bartlett, and Rossiter, names of some of the earliest settlers.

Historical or Architectural importance

According to the Dudley Foundation in Voices from North Guilford, "Little known is the fact that the names on the headstones do not necessarily correspond to the people buried beneath them. These old markers were in a pile in the cemetery, and in the early 1950s they were set in cement in rows in the Old Yard" (Dudley Foundation 2012, 22-23).
